First-Year Spring Admission (FYSA)

Q1. What is the First-Year Spring Admission Program?
A. The First-Year Spring Admission (FYSA) program is an opportunity for 125 freshmen to begin their Cornell experience starting in the spring semester. In the College of Arts and Sciences, 60-65 students will enroll in January.

Q2. How are Arts and Sciences students selected for the Program?
A. Arts and Sciences students selected for spring semester enrollment are exceptional candidates whom we were unable to admit for fall because of on-campus space constraints (this year, the College of Arts and Sciences considered some 18,000 candidates for just over 1,000 spaces).

Q3. When will I hear if I have been accepted for FYSA?
A. Arts and Sciences students selected for the program will be notified in May.

Q4. Can I start in the fall if I take courses over the summer, use previously earned credit, or have AP/IB credit?
A. No. Unfortunately, no spaces are available for the fall.

Q5. I am not sure what to do in the fall. What do you recommend?
A. This is a wonderful time to explore enriching opportunities! You may choose to be a full-time or part-time student elsewhere or spend the fall traveling abroad, participating in public service, working, doing research, etc. You are not expected to attend another college – all FYSA freshmen are entitled to attend Cornell for four full years (8 semesters) and, if eligible, receive financial aid for 8 semesters. We understand that students will have different preferences. The College of Arts and Sciences will contact you via email and work with each of you individually to confirm your plans for the fall.

Q6. What will my graduation date be?
A. All students starting in the spring semester will have a graduation date of January 2020. If you spend the fall semester in full-time study in an approved curriculum at another institution, you may be able to subsequently transfer in 12 or more of those college credits and could then choose to have your graduation date changed to May 2019. (AP or IB credits may not be used to change your graduation date in this way.) The College will be in touch with students who wish to pursue this option throughout the fall.

Q7. If I decide to take courses in the fall, do you have any suggestions?
A. It is strongly recommended that you attend a strong four-year liberal arts institution whose academic calendar is organized by semesters. In general, take courses that parallel what you would take as a first-semester freshman at Cornell, and remember that Arts and Sciences students often use their first year to explore a number of different subjects and majors. Please also refer to “Guidelines for Choosing Courses at Other Institutions.”

Q8. How do I know if I will receive Cornell credit for courses taken elsewhere?
A. Courses taken elsewhere will be evaluated carefully for their content and degree of challenge. If those courses indeed parallel courses at Cornell and provide you with adequate preparation for advanced work here, then Cornell credit may be obtained – credit evaluations for these courses will be available in the fall.

Q9. Will the grades I receive at another college contribute to my grade point average at Cornell?
A. No. These courses are considered for credit toward the Cornell degree, but the grades earned are not averaged in.

Q10. Can I enroll in Cornell as an Extramural student in the fall or take Cornell online courses?
A. No. We do not believe that starting your Cornell experience as a non-matriculated student is in your best interests. You would not be eligible for on-campus housing, financial aid, an academic advisor, and many other benefits that matriculated students enjoy.
Q11. Will I be at any disadvantage when it comes to registering for my spring semester courses at Cornell?
A. Absolutely not! You will pre-enroll for spring semester courses at the same time as fall semester freshmen. The College will provide you with further information about procedures and course selection before pre-enrollment in November. After you arrive on campus and complete the Orientation program, you will review your course selections and class schedule with your faculty advisor. Like all students, you will have the opportunity to make changes to your schedule during the add/drop period at the start of the semester. The process works very smoothly.

Q12. Will there be space for me in a residence hall in January?
A. Yes. The University guarantees on-campus housing for all matriculating FYSA students.

Q13. What will adjusting to Cornell be like? Will there be an Orientation program?
A. To make the transition to Cornell as smooth as possible, the College will send you information on a regular basis throughout the summer and fall. You will be assigned a peer advisor who can answer questions and share experiences even before you arrive – you can expect to hear from your peer advisor in October.

All FYSA students participate in a January Orientation program which is designed to help you navigate your new environment. The program will include not only an academic advising briefing, but social events and information about clubs to join as well. Your faculty advisor and regular advising dean will also be available for meetings starting in January.

Q14. Can I visit the campus before January?
A. Of course! If you are selected for spring semester enrollment and plan to visit Cornell in the fall, we recommend you take a campus tour and attend a class or two. When you finalize your plans, please let us know you are coming to Ithaca by emailing the address below.

We hope you will choose to join the College of Arts and Sciences in January!
